

Carlo Nofri

Guide to Glottodrama Method

*Learn foreign languages
through Drama*

Carlo Nofri

Guide to Glottodrama Method

*Learn foreign languages
through Drama*

The Glottodrama project has been funded with support from the European Commission. This publication reflects the views only of the author, and the Commission cannot be held responsible for any use which may be made of the information contained therein.

ISBN 978-88-96875-00-1

Published by Edizioni Novacultur
Rome, December 2009

1st Digital Edition

Translation: Roberto Cruciani

Copyright © 2009 Carlo Nofri

Glottodrama © is a registered trademark of Novacultur Srl

Edizioni Novacultur

Via Bocca di Leone, 36

Zip Code 00187 Rome (Italy)

Phone +39.06.99700347

edizioni info@novacultur.it – www.novacultur.it

NOVACULTUR info@glottodrama.eu – www.glottodrama.eu

Graphic design and editing:  Sorrists 413

All rights reserved. No part of this book can be printed or reproduced or utilized in any form or by any electronic, mechanical, or other means, including photocopying and recording, or in any information storage or retrieval system, without permission in writing from the publishers.

Acknowledgments

This Guide to the Glottodrama Method crowns two years of collective work by the Linguistic Research Laboratory of Edizioni Novacultur. In its complete version, this text is a synthesis of the pedagogical experience realized by researchers, language teachers and Theatre&Drama teachers who have been the protagonists of the European project Glottodrama. A complete list of their names can be found on the Glottodrama's website: www.glottodrama.eu. As coordinator of the project, I personally thank all of them.

I also particularly thank Stefania Bucciarelli and Carolina Drago, who wrote the Manin Institute's case story for this book, and who edited the video-documentaries of Method Glottodrama; Patrizia Molteni and Tiziana Jacoponi for summarizing the Glottodrama experience at the University Paris I Sorbonne and Florinda Nardi for providing a report on the experimentation carried out at the University of Rome "Tor Vergata". A grateful mention, finally, is owed to Giulia Todini, secretary of the Project Glottodrama, who patiently coordinated communication within the partnership and creatively implemented our web site.

Carlo Nofri

Chief editor of the language review Culturiana (www.culturiana.it), holds a degree in Philosophy of Language (University of Rome La Sapienza) and teaches Italian Language Pedagogy at the Summer School of the Italian Language Centre, University of Rome Tor Vergata. He is the author of several articles and publications on the teaching of modern languages and has focused his researches in particular on the relationship between language and thought (see Language and Mental Imagery, 1991, preface by Tullio De Mauro) as well as on non-verbal communication and foreign language teaching through humanistic approaches. He coordinated the pilot project Italnet (EU Leonardo da Vinci Programme 1995/1998) and is currently leading the multilateral Glottodrama project in the framework of the EU Lifelong Learning Programme.

Index

1.	Theoretical Framework
1.1	Nature and aims of the Glottodrama project .....	11
1.2	Targets of the project .....	12
1.3	The theoretical picture. Learning how to drive the language: from the linguistic competence to the communicative competence .....	13
1.4	Using a language means taking decisions: the pragmatic perspective .....	15
1.5	The foreign language course: a metalinguistic game? .....	16
1.6	Grammatical accuracy and communicative adequacy .....	16
1.7	Linguistic competence, social domains and communicative competence .....	18
1.8	A communicative act is a complex semiotic act ....	20
1.9	Context and pragmatic value of the communicative act .....	21
1.10	The non verbal aspects in communication .....	25
1.11	The pedagogical challenges of Glottodrama .....	33
1.12	Teaching critical aspects and the therapeutic value of Glottodrama pedagogy .....	36

1.13	From theory to teaching practice: motivating and involving body and mind .....	47
1.14	The 10 pedagogical principles of Glottodrama .....	48
1.15	Summary of the methodological features of Glottodrama .....	51
1.16	The relationship among specialised teachers .....	52
1.17	How to choose an approach to acting .....	54
1.18	Training of teachers .....	56
2.	How a Glottodrama course works
2.1	Essential ingredients .....	59
2.2	The programme. From Workshop to Theatre .....	60
2.3	The Teaching Unit structure .....	62
2.4	The structure of the lesson.....	66
3.	Monitoring of the course and testing of the results
3.1	The Logbook.....	69
3.2	Language Testing .....	70
4.	The experimentation of the Glottodrama method
4.1	The European partnership .....	75
4.2	“Drama and modern language teaching”, the Frascati Conference .....	76
4.3	“Quantitative” results from experimentation .....	77
4.4	“Qualitative” results of the experimentation: students’ and teachers’ opinions .....	78
4.5	Frequent problems in applying the Glottodrama method .....	82

5. Materials and text typologies
5.1 Choosing and creating linguistic and situational inputs.....	87
5.2 The value of text in Glottodrama.....	87
5.3 Dramatic text and syllabus .....	91
5.4 Macro-text features .....	92
5.5 How to make a text for Glottodrama teaching.....	94
5.6 Glottodrama class as a creative writing workshop	97
5.7 To stimulate, to act, to think. The lessons register ..	100
 Annex 1 - How to plan a syllabus according to the Common European Framework for Languages.....	 103
 Annex 2 - Case histories: how to produce a mini-fiction or a theatrical play with Glottodrama .....	 107
Actors for real. The fiction produced by the students of CTP Daniele Manin.....	107
From writing a script to the performance. The Glottodrama experience at the University of Tor Vergata.....	115
Comédie Italienne with French students: instructions for use .....	121
 Glossary of Glottodrama.....	 129
 Bibliography .....	 137

1. Theoretical Framework

1.1 Nature and aims of the Glottodrama project

The Glottodrama project arises from the recognition of the great pedagogical value represented by the experiences of theatrical foreign language teaching, that is those experiences taken from the use of drama resources in the learning of foreign languages. A field of teaching experimentation that has revealed the great potential of this approach to linguistic learning but has also pointed out the limits of the experiences often carried out without the support of professional actors.

Attempts to apply theatre to foreign language education that have been limited mainly to the dramatization of given texts and that have represented an expansion of those already tested acting activities as the dramatization and role-play very common nowadays in the teaching practice inspired by the communicative approach.

In other words these experiences couldn't fully exploit the pedagogic potential of all those activities and techniques used in typical Drama workshops which target the actors' training. Therefore the project has tried to intensify these experiences overcoming the simple formula of "theatre in a foreign language”, that often runs the risk of overshadowing the acting aspects enhancing the linguistic and formal aspects or not concentrating adequately on the laboratory phase run by the professionals of acting. The general idea is to integrate the language training path with a specific work on the reciting aspects that free the capacity to make linguistic acts adequate to real communicative situations, including paralinguistic aspects, mastering a higher level of means of expression and a greater understanding of their pragmatic effects.

The Glottodrama is a flexible methodology that can be fitted to any level of knowledge and to any educational context: from the elementary level of study in order to familiarize with the language to higher levels in order, to know and master deeper linguistic and “trans-grammatical” aspects.

Therefore the Glottodrama can be conceived and stand alone as the main language course but also as a parallel activity, that integrates those courses based on different methodological options.

It does not clash with the already existing learning programs of the different European school systems, but it proposes a new learning opportunity aiming first of all at the gaining of oral skills.

1.2 Targets of the project

The first language targeted by the project has been Italian for foreigners. The core of the project has been the creation, experimentation and scientific formalization of a methodology for foreign language teaching through theatrical resources able to clearly point out theoretical principles, application rules and learning goals. This is because the project has aimed at the introduction of an independent methodology that does not simply represent the mere integrative support to other learning courses, but is able to present itself also as a self-sufficient path competitive to other teaching methodologies. To achieve this we have tried to overcome the improvisation, the subjectivity or the incompleteness of other experiences.

In fact our preliminary inquiry into the experiences carried out at an international level has highlighted that almost no application of theatre to language learning has made a systematic evaluation of the results reached not only from a qualitative point of view (subjective perception of the learning experience that students and teachers have) but also from a quantitative point of view (measurements of the results achieved by the students according to the competence descriptors of the Common European Framework). The experimentations made required the production of original learning material and specific training of the teachers (language and drama teachers).

Following the good results reached with the learning of the Italian language, the project intends to apply the methodology to the teaching of other European languages.

1.3 The theoretical picture. Learning how to drive the language: from the linguistic competence to the communicative competence

Learning a foreign language is like learning to drive a car more than studying the bases of theoretical physics. That is why the main target of language learning is “to know how to do” rather than “to know”. While the concept of linguistic competence stresses the capacity of producing and understanding state-